FOX—ARMSTRONG

At the residence of Dr. Power Wolfe at Princeton, Ky., Jan. 9th. 1911 by Rev. Hunter, pastor of the Baptist church at Princeton, Mr. E. M. Armstrong and Miss Maybelle Fox, both of Crittenden county, were united in marriage. Mr. Armstrong is a step-son of Mr. S. S. Carrick deceased, and lives near Marion and is an industrious young gentleman.

Miss Maybelle Fox is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Fox, of the Emmaus Church neighborhood, and is well known for her sweet and kind disposition and numbers her friends by the score. The groom can congratulate himself on winning such an estimable young lady.

May God's richest blessings crown their lives.

By a friend.

Royal Prince Clad in a Blanket.

Berlin, Jan. 22.—Wrapped only in a sleeping car blanket and with the mercury hovering near zero, the Prince of Fuerstenberg, the emperor's most intimate friend, passed a sorry half hour today while on his way to attend the funeral of Prince Hohenlohe at Slawentzstz. While the prince was snugly tucked away in a sleeper and his valet was in another car, preparing his master's clothes for the morning, the train was cut in two, the sleeper going ahead in the first section and the valet's car following in the second.

Morning came and the prince decided to arise, but there was no valet and no clothes and the prince was due to change cars at Karlsruhe, the next station. There was no help for him, so, grabbing up a blanket, he rushed barefooted into the station waiting room and, shivering, waited for the second section of the train, his clothes and his valet.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to the many kind and sympathizing friends who stood so faithfully by me during the last sad hours of my dear husband. May God's richest blessings rest upon each in my prayer.

REV. JAMES V. LOGAN, OF BURNSIDE, KENTUCKY

At Risk of Life Saves Boy From Drowning.

Pittsburg, Jan. 20.—Twenty-six awards in recognition of acts of heroism were made to-day by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission, sixteen bronze and ten silver medals, besides cash awards being authorized. Nineteen of the awards were made in rescues or attempted rescues from drowning, three from fire, two from suffocation in wells and one each from train and shooting.

In nine instances the heroes lost their lives, and the awards is made to a member of the family.

ONE KENTUCKY HERO

A pretty story as told by the hero commission is that of the Rev. James V. Logan of Burnside, Ky., who, it appears, can swim as well as preach. On July 29, 1909, he, at the great risk of his own life, saved D. Ward Denton, a 16-year-old student, from drowning in the Cumberland river. The boy could not swim and got beyond his depth. Three others boys had made ineffectual efforts to save the drowning lad before the arrival of the minister on the scene. Throwing off his coat, the Rev. Mr. Logan went into the water after the lad, who was again sinking and before he could cover the twenty-five feet to the boy he had gone under. The minister dived, and, bringing up Denton, stuck out for shore with him.

STRUGGLE IN WATER

Young Denton, who was very strong and frenzied with fear, threw his arms about the rescuer and together they went down. Four or five times did the Rev. Mr. Logan fight himself free and bring the boy again to the surface, but at last, finding his strength fast waning, he struck Denton again and again in the face, forcing him to break his hold, and he then caught him in such a position that he could not interfere with his swimming, and with the almost unconscious lad he swam to safety. For this act the hero commission awards the Rev. Mr. Logan a bronze medal and $2,000 to be used in the education of his children as needed.

Injunction Against Cupid.

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 14.—When Miss Margaret Perkins was given a position as telephone operator in a local hotel, she had to give a bond that she wouldn't marry for six months. Six predecessors of Miss Perkins had quit the job cold because a life berth as "better half" looked better than answering telephone calls.

Miss Perkins took the job; signed the contract; secured bondsmen and is now murmuring "number," over the lines of the switchboard for eight hours each day.

"I don't expect to get married inside of six months," declared Miss Perkins as she went to work on the first morning.

"Well if she does, there's still that bond," murmured the hotel manager as he watched her handling the exchange.

Miss Perkins, bond expires June 23rd., 1912, after which time she will be free to tangle up with one of Cupid's arrows.

Moore—Carter.

Wednesday Jan. 18, 1911, at the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Carter on the Salem Road, Miss Lelia Carter and R. H. Moore were united in marriage by Rev. T. C. Carter. The wedding was the sequel to a courtship of several years standing.

The young people having been sweethearts since childhood. The bride is a young woman of refined and elegant personality and is a noted member of a most charming and hospitable family. Being the oldest daughter, much of the care of the household has voluntary been taken on her shoulders to the relief of her mother and she is known and appreciated by every one who has had the good fortune to visit at the Carter home. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Moore of this city and has for many years successfully eluded cupids snares in various sections of the country, awaiting the pleasure of his boyhood love.

"Faint heart never won Fair Lady," is a saying which Henry now sees verified. His strong heart won at last. They are at home at the Moore home in this city and are the recipients of many and warm congratulations.

I. C. FREIGHT IN HEAD ON COLLISION

Engineer Shuttleworth of Evansville Knocked Unconscious.

The overlooking of orders by the trainmen on No. 355, Illinois Central freight train, southbound is said to have been the cause of the head-on collision between No. 355, double header freight, and extra 624, northbound freight, at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning at Crayne, Ky., between Marion and Princeton, Ky.

Engineer J. H. Shuttleworth, 313 Oak street, Evansville, was painfully bruised about the head face and body and his left knee was sprained. The other engineer, John Powers, 116 West Franklin street, Evansville, and the two firemen escaped injury when they leaped from their engines to the ground.

Engineer Thomas Jones of extra 624 and his fireman, both of Princeton, Ky., were uninjured. When Shuttleworth jumped his head struck the ground with such force that he was unconscious until he reached Henderson while being taken to his home in Evansville. His injuries were ascertained to be only of a painful nature after physicians had made an examination.

Both trains were running at a lively rate of speed, but the engineers saw the approaching headlights in time to reduce their speed before the collision occurred on the long curve. The damage done to the engines is estimated at $300. The cars were damaged very little.

The double header was composed of about twenty cars of merchandise to Kentucky and Tennessee points, while the extra freight had mixed freight for Evansville. Traffic was suspended only a few hours.

An investigation is being made of the accident by I. C. officials to fix the blame for the collision.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank our dear neighbors and friends for all their kindness to us during the long illness, death and burial of our beloved wife and mother.

Wm. T. Elkins.

Mamie Waddell.

Death of Mrs. W. T. Elkins.

Last Wednesday Jan. 18th, 1911, Mrs. Mary Elkins died at her home four miles south of Marion of tuberculosis, of which she had suffered for several years. She was 61 years old and is survived by her husband the venerable Wm. Elkins and one daughter, Mrs. Mamie Waddell, wife of C. M. Waddell of the same vicinity. She was a member Chapel Hill church. Her funeral was preached by Rev. M. E. Miller, as her pastor Rev. Thompson of Kuttawa, missed the train and Rev. Price was absent in Louisville. Mrs. Elkins was a noble Christian woman and was never known to speak ill of any one. Her neighbors love and respect her memory. Peace to her ashes.

King—Hughes.

Wednesday, Jan. 18th, 1911, at high noon, Mr. Ranzy King of the Rodney section and Miss Lula Hughes of the Weston section drove into the city and proceeded to Rev. W. T. Oakley's residence and were united in marriage by that popular minister, after which they returned home to receive the parental blessings. These young people have been lovers for several years and the marriage was the culmination of a long courtship.

Gold Found At Ravia, Oklahoma

Assayed $34.50 A Ton

The following, from Saturday's Daily Oklahoman, will be of interest to our readers:

Ravia, Okla., Jan. 13.—Excitement runs high in Ravia and other parts of Johnson county on account of a strike of gold made by H. S. Ballard, a Denver prospector, and W. R. Smith, a former Muskogee minister, who went into partnership with Ballard in his prospecting here.

The discovery was made about four months ago, according to Ballard, but the assay which confirmed his belief was made by the United States Smelting & Refining Company of Denver less than two weeks ago. This assay, it is said, was made three times in order to avoid all chances of error.

The depth of the vein which has been struck is not yet known, but it is claimed that the shaft already has been worked down about sixty-five feet, and there is no sign of weakening. The vein is twenty feet broad as far as it has been worked, and the samples which were sent to Denver about 300 pounds of ore in all assayed $35. a ton.

FAX SYSTEM NEEDS REVISION

Address of A. Y. Ford to the Members of Kentucky
Press Association.

PRESENT MODE COSTS HEAVILY

Tax Revision Does Not Mean Exemption, But Fair Apportionment on All Kinds of Property—It Means Uniformity.

Louisville.—The following is the address of Mr. A. Y. Ford before the Kentucky Press association at the mid-winter gathering in Louisville:

The tax system of a state deserves careful consideration, because the power to tax is the power to destroy, and a tax unwisely laid may easily drain the life of a community or kill an industry. Approximately $20,000,000 a year are taken from the pockets of the people of Kentucky for the support of the state, county and municipal governments. It is incomprehensible that a thing which means so much in dollars and cents to the people of the state should generally have received such scant consideration.

It is difficult to understand why it should have been so hard at any time to secure from those charged with the duty of making our laws a careful, thorough and conscientious study of the methods by which these large revenues are raised. We have no special complaint to make of the way in which these revenues are spent. There has been no considerable extravagance in the expenditure of our public funds. It is therefore time that we now stop to consider carefully whether these large sums are raised by the best possible methods, whether they are raised in a way that distributes the burden fairly as between the owners of various kinds of property, whether the tax laws impose the least burden consistent with the demand for revenue, and whether they so distribute the burden as to offer the least possible hindrance to the development of the state. Where there is competition between communities such as necessarily exists under modern conditions, an unwise system, laid without due consideration of the handicap it may impose upon the community in the sharp competition for new population, new industries and new capital, may easily prove destructive of prosperity.

Revision Does Not Mean Exemption

The movement for a revision of the tax system of Kentucky is not a movement in favor of exemption of any kind of property from taxation. I know it has been characterized in some quarters recently as being for an exemption of all capital from taxation. This has recently appeared in the press of the state in an article from a gentleman whom I have the greatest respect which reveals a total misapprehension of the spirit and purpose of this movement.

In this article it is declared that the attempt to revise the system of taxation in Kentucky is a part of a general combination of capital to secure exemption from taxation. I do not believe that this is true.

It is a mistake to suppose that it is the rich man only, or chiefly, who has a desire of complaint against the present tax system. The rich man can take care of himself, and can take care of himself, he does not understand his tax liability. He is smart enough to put the greater part of his estate in forms of property that he can easily conceal from the assessor, poor man can do these things. If he has been fortunate enough to save anything at all generally it first takes the form of a savings account and then of a home. He knows little or nothing of stocks and bonds, if he has any, and must conceal it from the assessor or give up practically the whole of his yield in taxes. If he has not saved enough for a home he still pays a tax on real estate, for every dollar he owns under a roof must pay this tax, whether it is held for a tax receipt from the sheriff, or for a rent receipt from the landlord. There is no escape in it. And if the poor man in Kentucky has tried to buy a home and has made a partial payment on it, finds that the notes representative of his deferred payments are also taxed, and the lender may be trusted to arrange matters so that the owner of the property will still pay the bulk of the tax on those notes, automatically making him pay double to the extent of his unpaid purchase money.

Costs the State Heavily.

I have seen it stated recently that the assertion that our tax system has driven capital from Kentucky and keeps other capital from coming to Kentucky is a bald assertion not resting on facts.

Five years ago I corresponded more than five million dollars of capital that had been invested in Kentucky, but had been rapidly closed out and taken from the state bank. Owners found that under more advantageous tax laws elsewhere they could get greater yields from their investment. This money was taken from the state banks, centers of capital like Louisville, and was taken from small farms where the withdrawal of $100,000 or $200,000 meant a rather serious contraction in the available capital of the community.

We Need Outside Capital.

It has not been long since I heard the very startling statement made by a speaker at a public gathering that we had lost most of our capital in Kentucky. I am quite sure no editor of a Kentucky newspaper will agree to this.

Practically all of the development of the resources of Kentucky that has taken place has been by aid of foreign capital. It must have been done by the means of outside capital.

We want it to come. We need it.

We want it to stand for its fair share of the burden of our expenses. It is not proposed to exempt it from taxation in any way, but it will be allowed to adjust the taxes upon every form of capital that comes with a reasonable view to the profit it expects to yield its owners and also with an eye out for the competition between one State and another in the advantages offered for such investments.

Some Absurd Results.

Let me point out a few of the absurdities of the law enforcing the general property tax in Kentucky. Let us suppose a man with a thousand dollars in a savings account in Louisville. At the prevailing rate of interest, three per cent, he would receive in one year thirty dollars on his savings. He would pay $15 of this $30 in taxes. I do not know what the tax rate was in Paducah. Seven years ago it was $10 on the basis of his hundred thousand dollars deposited in a Louisville bank, and he would have paid $30 at three per cent interest.

In that case he would have won barely $20,000 in savings funds in Kentucky. The other liberal policy pursued by the other New England States has made little contribution to the great reservoirs of savings funds, the hundred millions of people of small means which in the aggregate make such enormous sums that every great enterprise with a business, even the largest, begins first to the New England market.

Banks Protect Themselves.

Even in the earlier days of corporate development the result was not quite so bad as it is to-day. Year by year, however, bonds and stocks and notes and other forms of intangible personal property represent a larger and larger percentage of the total value of the property.

Year by year, at the same time, the demands for revenue for public purposes, such as good roads, good schools, etc., become heavier and the tax rate goes higher and higher. At the same time the yield from bonds and stocks and notes and other forms of intangible personal property grows and grows.

Today any standard railroad would consider itself disgraced in the matter of credit if it could not float its bonds at 4 per cent or less. The inevitable result of these changing conditions—with the tax rate going higher and the yield from this class of property going lower—is that the tax on this kind of property will not list it for taxation when the tax rate takes anywhere from 40 to 75 per cent of the income yielded by that property. Therefore more and more of this kind of property has gone into hiding, and though such property forms every year a larger part of our total wealth, it yields steadily a smaller proportion of the total revenue, and the burden of supporting the government falls more and more heavily upon real estate and other forms of property that can not be hidden.

It is in order to cure this injustice that the evils of taxation and gambling from it that the tax is laid in Kentucky. The evil has been corrected elsewhere. It can be corrected here. The States of the Union are rapidly abandoning this system. No state has a uniform system of apportioning or equalizing that could compel this intangible movable property to stand and be taxed when the tax rate amounts to one-half or so large a part of the income.

How It Works in Kentucky.

Now let us look at the situation in Kentucky. The state tax is 50 cents. There you have at a glance the tax quite as high as some classes of property can easily stand. But we do not stop there. The tax on top of that is the same tax must be paid by the county in which, taking the state over, will average not far from 50 cents. This gives us a tax rate of 40, too high for many, and the process of hiding gets well under way.

Nor do we stop here. On top of this state tax of 50 cents and the county tax of 50 cents there is still imposed a local tax ranging up to 50 cents, 50 cents, $1.00 and sometimes higher, and with every 5 or 10 cents added to the rate more and more property is eliminated by hiding or undervaluation. The average tax rate in cities and towns of all sizes stands fourth in fifth class in Kentucky is about $2.22. This amount's to about 55 per cent of the return from any 4 per cent investment. It amounts to a little under 45 per cent of the return from any 5 per cent investment, and if you multiply it by 5 per cent again, it becomes 225 per cent of the investment, such as a savings account, it takes nearly 75 per cent of the income. Not even the wildest extremer would propose an income tax of 45 to 55 per cent, yet that is what we are doing to the property of weak human nature. It is a well known fact of economic law as well as of the law of human nature, that the tax taken from any class of property underestimates and evasions will begin. The larger the percentage of income taken by tax the greater incentive to evasion, undervaluation and perhaps inaction. It is a well known fact that you reach a point where to pile further taxes on a tax rate already high does not yield a proportionate increase of revenue.

We Have Tried It Nineteen Years.

We fixed this system in the new constitution nineteen years ago. Our intentions were good. We intended that this system was being abandoned elsewhere, however, at the time we adopted it, the system was being abandoned elsewhere. It is not yielding sufficient revenue for a progressive state. It hinders industrial and financial progress. It diverts capital out of the state, or into forms of investment that do not promote business activity and do not furnish employment to labor and do not develop the resources of the state.

It is a mistake to suppose that it is the rich man only, or chiefly, who has a desire of complaint against the present tax system. The rich man can take care of himself, and the poor man can do the same. He understands his tax liability. He is not underestimating himself, he is able to employ the best legal counsel to tell him how to so arrange his investments as to be in a safe position when the assessment comes in. He will always fail, he can never get out of the state. He is smart enough to put the greater part of his estate in forms of property that he can easily conceal from the assessor, poor man can do these things. If he has been fortunate enough to save anything at all generally it first takes the form of a savings account and then of a home. He knows little or nothing of stocks and bonds, if he has any, and must conceal it from the assessor or give up practically the whole of his yield in taxes. If he has not saved enough for a home he still pays a tax on real estate, for every dollar he owns under a roof must pay this tax, whether it is held for a tax receipt from the sheriff, or for a rent receipt from the landlord. There is no escape in it. And if the poor man in Kentucky has tried to buy a home and has made a partial payment on it, finds that the notes representative of his deferred payments are also taxed, and the lender may be trusted to arrange matters so that the owner of the property will still pay the bulk of the tax on those notes, automatically making him pay double to the extent of his unpaid purchase money.

Can Be Brought Out.

It may be urged that lowering the rate on property of this character will not bring it out for taxation. We can only point to the experience of other States in this regard. The situation is pretty much the same everywhere. Men more would rather be honest about their assessments if they can be so without suffering confiscation. The change of rates on other property has brought in a large sum of revenue from it. It may be told in the State of Maryland within recent years, and made possible the reduction of the State tax rate to 16 cents.

Our Remedy in Kentucky.

But we are not at liberty in the State of Kentucky to adopt any of the methods which have been afforded to other States, because of the restrictions placed upon our Legislature by the constitution of the State. We are tied hand and foot to the general property tax system. We do not succeed in criticizing without proposing a remedy. It is proposed that there should be no sudden and radical change of the revenue system immediately upon the adoption of the proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State. If the Legislature proposes the amendment, then the people who the people ratify it at the polls, the result up to that point will be merely that the Legislature is put in a position where it can begin the work of revising the tax system. The amendment does not mean "must." It means "may." It is wise the Legislature will revise slowly. The government must go on. Revenue must be had. Revision must be conducted in a manner that can be justified by a tax commission, then get information for the Legislature to act upon. It should be along a consistent line designed to end in a system under which the source of revenue shall be classified, certain property being taxed for State purposes and for Municipal purposes only; all other property for County purposes, and for County purposes only, all other property for County purposes only; all property being taxed at one rate for some purpose and for one purpose only, that rate being as fairly as possible adjusted to the normal income from property of that class and collected by the method that will yield the largest revenue.

That is the proposition in a nutshell. It is not theory. It is being successfully carried out in the Eastern States, where the State tax has been so changed that the rate may be cut down. And at every step of the progress from the old method to the new, the world would be in the hands of the chosen representatives of the people.

The Goal To Be Reached.

The formulating of the new system and the working out of its details should be done most cautiously, but always with a view to finally reaching a point where the State would raise its entire revenues from one class of property. The Counties from another class of property, and the Cities from still another. Under this system, when completely in effect, farming lands would be taxed only for local purposes. They should not pay a cent of tax for State purposes. No kind of property taxed for State purposes should be taxed for local purposes, and none taxed for County or City purposes should be taxed for State purposes.

By this separation of sources of revenue, we avoid that cutting up of one budget on another which makes the burden of taxation in Kentucky, and by this separating of property according to its capacity for standing a tax proportionate to the income it yields, we remove the incentive which our present system furnishes undervaluation and evasion and perhaps inaction.

Through a special arrangement, this paper is enabled to offer the Daily Courier-Journal by mail, in combination, at a price just one-half the regular rates for the Courier-Journal.

The regular price of the Daily Courier-Journal is 50 cents a month, $6.00 a year. See the clubbing proposition in our advertising columns elsewhere and read about the bargain. This special offer is good only for subscription orders given us during the month of February. The offer will be withdrawn the last day of the month, and no orders can be taken after that.

Under this offer, Courier-Journal will be sent to subscribers only through the post-office, not through Courier-Journal agent.

No Courier-Journal orders for a full year be taken at this rate. Subscription must be for not less than four months or longer than eight months.

The Tariff question in Congress and Mr. Watterson's letters from Europe will make the Courier-Journal especially interesting for the next few months.

He Never Got His Money

Even in the earlier days of corporate development the result was not quite so bad as it is to-day. Year by year, however, bonds and stocks and notes and other forms of intangible personal property represent a larger and larger percentage of the total value of the property.

Year by year, at the same time, the demands for revenue for public purposes, such as good roads, good schools, etc., become heavier and the tax rate goes higher and higher. At the same time the yield from bonds and stocks and notes and other forms of intangible personal property grows and grows.

Today any standard railroad would consider itself disgraced in the matter of division of the tax system that it originates largely in the desire of banks to escape from taxation. Let no one concern himself about the banks in this matter. The tax on banks does not stop them. There is much to be done in the defense of taxation, which in common parlance merely means shouldering the load off on the next fellow. If a bank has to pay a high rate of taxation it gets a back from the customer. If the borrower is the owner of real estate who is putting money into houses, he gets it back from his tenant, who may be poor. In the end the customer will be worse somebody else than the bank. The bank will continue to earn dividends for its stockholders.

It can not mean that too heavy a tax on a bank is not an unfavorable effect. The unfavorable effect of it is upon the community, however, as a whole. Rather than stand too heavy a load of taxation the banks will reduce their dividends and earnings, as many have done in Kentucky. Under the law of this State, the amount that can be loaned by a bank to any one individual or firm or corporation is limited to a fixed percentage of the capital and surplus of that bank. The result, therefore, of reducing the capital and surplus of banks is to reduce the amount of credit that can be given and to restrict the banking facilities of our large mercantile and industrial enterprises.

This has gone so far that there is not a large establishment in the State to-day that can procure from its local banks a sufficient line of credit to carry on its operations. Nor is there any bank today, on account of the heavy tax we put on capital and banking deposits a single institution or any group of institutions strong enough to float a really big industrial enterprise.

A Financial Result.

Contrast with this the fact that for 1910 there were listed in the State of Kentucky for taxation bonds to the amount of only $5,773,376, out of a total amount of $38,275,025—or less than one-twentieth of one per cent. Add bonds the amount of stocks and money and they all amount to less than 10 per cent of the total, and without mortgage notes (which can't escape) less than 5 per cent of the total. This is about the same in New England. Now it is presumed to say that this is more than an infinitesimal part of the bonds actually owned in this State subject to taxation under the State laws, as there is not a large establishment in the State with half that amount.

So we have adopted the RULE to STOP the paper when the time is out. A subscriber buys a dollars worth of the Crittenden Record-Press and we shall send him a dollar's worth.

If he orders a dollar's worth of sugar from his grocer, the grocer will not send him another dollar's worth without another order. So if you are behind at all in your subscription, but if your time has just expired, you may know the reason your paper does not come any more.

There is yet another class of subscribers who receive no paper. This class is not nine months or more behind, nor has their subscription just expired. It is a class between the two.

Some of these subscriptions have not been out long, some are nearly nine months over, due, while others range from two, three, four, five, six, seven or eight months in arrears.

But in order to treat every subscriber just alike and to start the stop-when-out plan, and get the entire list on a business basis, these will fail to receive a paper also. It would not be fair or good business to stop the man's paper whose time has just expired or the man's paper who is nine months behind although he may be as good as gold and yet continue to send the man a paper who is three or six months behind. We could never put the system into operation were we to do that. We have already given two months notice that January 1, 1911, the Crittenden Record-Press would adopt that rule.

If anyone has paid and has a receipt given prior to Nov. 4, 1910, by Mr. Calmes for a year's subscription and have not had credit on the books, come in with your receipt and we'll correct the over sight.

To Those Who Got No Paper This Year.

Quite a number of the subscribers to the Crittenden Record-Press have not received a paper since January 1st.

There is a reason for this. It will not be the fault of the postoffice, the mail carrier or the Crittenden Record-Press office. But it will be for other reasons.

One reason is that under the postal laws, we are not allowed to send the paper longer than nine months if it has not been renewed. The postal authorities require an affidavit from the publisher that he has no names on his list whose times have been out over nine months. The publisher of this paper cannot make such an affidavit until quite a number of names are removed from the list which has been done. So if your subscription is as much as nine months past due you may know that is the reason your paper cannot be delivered to you any longer. If you desire it you should renew without delay.

There is another reason why others will not receive their papers who are not in arrears nine months or at all. It is because we have adopted the stop-when-out system which is the only successful way to conduct a newspaper like the Crittenden Record-Press. We have no way of knowing who wants the paper sent on and who wants it stopped unless the person wanting renews before his time is out. It frequently happens that a subscriber who takes the paper for year, pays for it and does not want it again, is annoyed by the paper being sent on and later followed by a dun. We have numerous requests from subscribers to be sure and stop their paper when out unless they renew. Others tell us to keep on sending it. It is simply impossible for us to remember what each subscriber told us or to keep a set of books along that line. The result is confusion and frequently hard feeling.

So we have adopted the RULE to STOP the paper when the time is out. A subscriber buys a dollars worth of the Crittenden Record-Press and we shall send him a dollar's worth.

If he orders a dollar's worth of sugar from his grocer, the grocer will not send him another dollar's worth without another order. So if you are behind at all in your subscription, but if your time has just expired, you may know the reason your paper does not come any more.

There is yet another class of subscribers who receive no paper. This class is not nine months or more behind, nor has their subscription just expired. It is a class between the two.

Some of these subscriptions have not been out long, some are nearly nine months over, due, while others range from two, three, four, five, six, seven or eight months in arrears.

But in order to treat every subscriber just alike and to start the stop-when-out plan, and get the entire list on a business basis, these will fail to receive a paper also. It would not be fair or good business to stop the man's paper whose time has just expired or the man's paper who is nine months behind although he may be as good as gold and yet continue to send the man a paper who is three or six months behind. We could never put the system into operation were we to do that. We have already given two months notice that January 1, 1911, the Crittenden Record-Press would adopt that rule.

WILL NOT SELL COAL

PROPERTIES IN KENTUCKY.

St. Louis, Jan. 21—(Special.) James Campbell, president of the North American Company, announced, before departing for New York this evening that the directors had decided not to sell the properties of the Western Kentucky Coal Company, near Sturgis, Ky., but to develop them. Whether the mines will be sold at any time depends on what proposition might be received from a prospective buyer.

The forces employed in the fields have been doubled. Mr. Campbell said the output would be increased from 500,000 tons a year to 2,000,000 tons. The maximum will be reached within two years.

The products of the mines are shipped by water to Cairo and Memphis, and then transported by rail to destinations. The coal is shipped exclusively to points in the South.

The West Kentucky Coal Company, which is controlled by the North American Company, was incorporated June 15, 1905, in New Jersey, with a capital stock of $500,000, all owned by the North American Company. The bonded debt is $2,000,000. The properties, embracing 26,000 acres are situated in Crittenden, Webster, and Union counties, near Sturgis, Ky. The ultimate estimated capacity of the mines is 200,000,000 tons of merchantable coal. The company operates coal yards at Memphis, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky., and it has a fleet of steamers and barges running on the Ohio river.

The active medical ingredients of Rexall Orderlies, which are odorless, tasteless and colorless, is an entirely new discovery. Combined with other extremely valuable ingredients, it forms a perfect bowel regulator, intestinal invigorator and strengthener. Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy and are notable for their agreeableness to the palate and gentleness in action. They do not cause griping or any disagreeable effect or inconvenience.

Unlike other preparations for a like purpose, they do not create a habit, but instead they overcome the cause of habit acquired through the use of ordinary laxatives, cathartics and harsh physic, and permanently remove the cause of constipation or irregular bowel action.

We will refund your money without argument if they do not do as we say they will. Two sizes, 25 cents and 10 cents. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store. Haynes & Taylor.

JUDGE GORDON LEFT FOR WILLIAMSBURG TO ACT AS SPECIAL JUDGE.

Judge J. F. Gordon left Saturday for Williamsburg the county seat of Whitley county, where he will preside as special circuit judge. He will try a number of important cases, that have been on the court docket for three years.

The cases are damage suits growing out of the explosion that occurred in Jellico, a town of 3,500 in 1906. In September of that year, it is to be remembered that sixteen people were killed, over one hundred injured, and a number of business houses destroyed as the result of an explosion of nitroglycerine and dynamite in the yards of the L. & N. and Southern Railways. Only a few of the damage cases against the railroad company have been tried and large damages were given in these. (Madisonville Hustler.)

REAPING BENEFIT.

From The Experience of Marion People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Marion residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

Mrs. Emma Weldon, Salem St., Marion, Ky., says: "Kidney trouble annoyed me for five years and greatly affected my health. My back was lame and pained me most of the time, I had frequent headaches and often could scarcely see. None of the remedies I tried gave me any benefit until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Haynes & Taylor's drug store. The effect of this remedy was truly marvelous, as in two months I was free from every symptom of kidney trouble. My only regret is that I did not hear of Doan's Kidney Pills sooner, as they would have saved me much expense and misery."

ONE THING SHE COULD DO FOR HIM.

Saturday afternoon recently, a frail little man started to cross Broadway, at Forty-second street just when all sorts of fast-moving vehicles were whirling their inattentive patrons up Broadway. At the same instant a very fleshy lady started from the curb directly opposite with the same purpose in mind.

By remarkable luck, both succeeded in escaping the passing wheels, but, as fate would have it, the little man, whose eyes were busily ogling the traffic on either side of him, darted plump into the on-coming woman at the middle of the street. The result was a sickening collision, with the little man down and out.

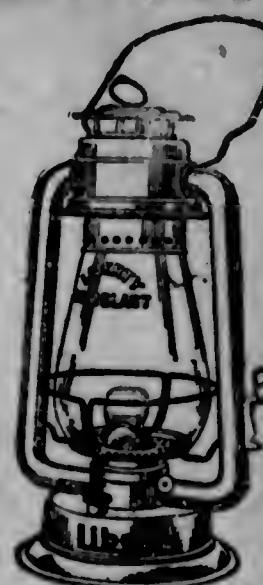

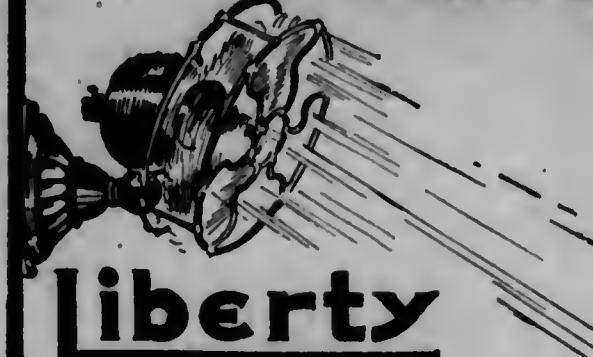

"You should have looked where you were going," said the fleshy woman, bending over the victim on the curb, to which he had been carried by a traffic policeman. "But is there anything I can do for you?"

"Yes," he replied faintly, opening his eyes a moment: "get the number of the automobile that struck me." (Paducah News Democrat.)

COWBOYS WANTED

Flood of Appeals For Husbands
Made to Gov. of Texas.

Maidens from New York to Portland, Ore., and from Chicago to Kansas City and St. Louis, are begging for Texas cowboys for husbands says a San Antonio dispatch to the Philadelphia Inquirer. The mail of Gov. Campbell, of Austin, and of Postmaster Stephens, of San Antonio, is growing heavier daily with applications, many accompanied by photographs, from women of all ages, who want to live on the plains, a care free and healthy life, away from the conventionalities and superficialities of the great cities." So great has become this flood of requests that several Texas cities are beginning to sit up and take notice.

The Beaumont Chamber of Commerce offers to furnish rice free of charge, to shower Texas brides; a Justice of the Peace in Van Zandt county offers to perform the marriage ceremony free of charge to couples settling in that county. The Texas Commercial Secretaries' Association has prepared data proving conclusively that a married couple in Texas can live cheaper than one single person, and someone has jocularly said that now Cupid should have smooth sailing in some way, and many prospectors and gold seekers from over the state and from further west are pouring into Ravia.

The secret has leaked out in some way, and many prospectors and gold seekers from over the state and from further west are pouring into Ravia. Several land owners in this vicinity also have heard of the strike, and have been sinking shafts. Many of these claim that they have struck pay ore, but only the original prospectors will make any facts public. Jacob Quelin Black, who is in line with from Maine, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Iowa, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Ohio. One young woman declares that "the men of Philadelphia are too fast, and I want to marry a genuine man, one not vitiated by the life of this terrible city." Another wants a cowboy husband, and says she is a "natural blonde, with a loving disposition, a jolly girl of 27." Another desires "a real Texas man, at least six feet tall, weighing 200 pounds, with regular features and smooth shaven face, who does not smoke or chew tobacco."

One young woman from Boston writes in heavy cream-colored paper to the Governor, saying:

"You may think this is an act of a foolish girl, but if knew how few the chances are for a girl in New England to marry the man with whom her heart tells her she could be happy—in other words, if you could recognize the deplorable lack here of real manhood still single—you would understand the reason. The man of my choice need not be too well educated, but he must be a man, ready to do and dare at all times this daring to be based on good judgment. He must have lived always in the open, and be able to appreciate the passages I would read him from Robert Louis Stephenson. He must be young, and a man who can laugh on the blizzly, gray and chilly days when rounding up his cattle, as well as in the soft Southern moonlight, when the gulf breezes make to nod the roses of romance."

tained by all those interested so far, and the title to the land has just been obtained by Ballard and Smith. The land formerly owned by Indians, and lies about one mile east of Ravia.

The secret has leaked out in some way, and many prospectors and gold seekers from over the state and from further west are pouring into Ravia.

Since the strike has been made public it is almost impossible to buy Ravia real estate for anything like reasonable prices.

EDUCATION IS POWER

We have often heard it said that education is power, but it had never dawned upon our mind "until recently" how truthful this saying is.

Education is the key that unlocks the door of opportunities for men and women, and without the education they are unable to grasp the opportunities even though they are presented by the thousands. No person can secure and hold their position long, that is higher than their qualifications call for, and as it is the amount of education a person has that qualifies them for the various positions, it is necessary that we educate and qualify ourselves for the positions in life we expect to fill, or we will never be able to fill them.

What kind of position are you educating yourself or children for? Do you wish for them to grow up in ignorance so they will only be able to work as some one else directs? Or do you want them to be qualified to attend to any kind of business they may happen to be interested in?

It is the educated person that climbs. Had Abraham Lincoln been content to grow up in ignorance he probably would never have been known outside of his immediate neighborhood. Had James A. Garfield been content with only knowing how to cipher and write his name no doubt but what he would have followed the plow all his life. But they were not content to grow up in ignorance and as a result of their discontent, and desire for knowledge they were able to climb from the position of rail-splitter and plow-boy to that of President of the United States.

In this country and in this day men are not born great, but greatness is achieved by those who qualify themselves and strive for it.

The men who hold positions of honor in both our state and national governments, did not get there on account of any advantage they had over you and I by birth, but they got there on account of their qualifications and perseverance.

The Farmers Union stands for a higher education of the boys and girls of today. It wants to place an education in the reach of every child, and place every child in the reach of an education. It wants to blot out the word illiterate, from the English language, and make the land in which we live, one of the most enlightened spots that dot the universe, does it have your sympathy and support in this effort?

Yours Fraternally,
Chas. W. Fox.

COMPANY TO CUT STOCK IN HALF

Citizens' National Life Stock-Holders So Decide.

The stockholders of the Citizens' National Life Insurance Company decided at their annual meeting yesterday to reduce their capital stock from $1,500,000 to $750,000, to conform to a recommendation of the insurance commissioners of Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky.

The stockholders also elected thirty-six directors, making seven changes in the directorate. At the directors' meeting officers were elected, headed by Charles D. Pearce as president. Mr. Pearce had acted as president since resignation of W. H. Gregory, Dec. 7th, when the Gregory brothers sold their holdings to the interests represented by him. Mr. Pearce's election was unanimous, and the vote to reduce the capital stock was all but unanimous. Only 203 shares were voted against the proposition, while the vote in favor represented 100,873 1/2 shares, as announced after the tabulation. Two or three thousand shares were afterward voted in favor of the resolution to cut down the capital stock, but these were not officially counted, as they were not needed.

The outstanding capital stock is 133,533 shares, and the two-thirds vote necessary to carry the proposition was only 89,025 shares.

No Real Shrinkage.

President Pearce and other directors explained after the meeting that the reduction of the capital stock by one-half does not represent any actual shrinkage of values. The authorized issue of capital stock is 150,000 shares of the par value is $10. According to the resolution reducing the capital stock the par value of each share is now $5, but each $5 share, with the surplus which it represents, is now worth just as much as a $10 share was worth before the insurance commissioners refused to allow certain investments to be carried on the books as assets. In other words, the reduction is a bookkeeping transaction, purely.

The directors elected for a three-year term were Charles D. Pearce, of Louisville; Helm Bruce, of Louisville; Geo. Bohon, of Harrodsburg; J. W. Lam, of Greenville; S. A. Shanklin, of Helena; L. W. Key, of Mayfield; Graham Vreeland, of Louisville; S. S. Faulkner, of Helena, Ark.; J. Whit Potter, of Bowling Green; R. L. Moore, of Marion; Dr. J. W. Koontz, of Greenville; and J. W. Thacker, of Georgetown. The vote by which they were elected was 996,656 shares. The directors elected for a two-year term are Bush W. Allen, of Harrodsburg; Geo. G. Fetter, of Louisville; M. A. Scovell, of Lexington; W. C. Kendrick, of Louisville; C. N. McCarty, of Foster; W. D. Claybrook, of Springfield; W. M. Moore, of Cynthiana; V. J. Blow, of Louisville; W. W. Banks, of Tifton, Ga.; A. T. Siler, of Williamsburg; W. T. Tandy, of Hopkinsville; and Nicholas Yeaman, of Henderson. The vote by which they were elected was 100,381.

The directors elected for a one-year term were J. S. Frazer, of Mt. Sterling; John I. Winters, of Fort Worth, Texas; George Parsons, of Cairo, Ill.; T. C. Cairns, of Birmingham, Ala.; F. M. Fisher, of Paducah; H. L. Covington, of Pensacola, Fla.; William Witherspoon, of Nashville, Tenn.; George Alexander, of Paris; J. J. Garrott, of Pembroke; B. M. Arnett, of Harrodsburg; William Austin, of Mobile, Ala.; and W. T. Womack, of Grayson. The vote by which they were elected was 99,990.

The stockholders adjourned immediately after the election of directors and at a directors' meeting which was immediately held the following officers were elected unanimously:

Charles D. Pearce president; Geo. Bohon, first vice president; J. W. Lam, second vice President; R. L. Moore, third vice president; J. Whit Potter, fourth vice president; L. W. Key, treasurer; and Helm Bruce, general counsel. These officers constitute the executive and finance committee, and in addition to them the following officers were elected:

A MICA MINE A BONANZA

J. M. Persons returned from Alabama this week with samples of mica from a mine he has taken an option on in that state.

He contemplates forming a company here to work the property and already has some of our capitalists interested. The samples of Mica exhibited are the finest we ever saw and we are informed that a fine vein runs through the property on which Mr. Persons has an option. As Mica is worth about $2.00 an ounce, it is quite easy to see that J. M. is now on the road to his millions.

Our Big Congressman Leader Of

The Kentucky Delegation In

House Of Representatives

All Come To Him

For Assistance

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Ollie James is learning now what it is to be the member of a great committee, which has the power of distributing the house committee places. The members of the Kentucky delegation all look to him to get them properly fixed on committees. If that was all he would not object, for he is determined to do all he can for Kentucky. From every state, how-ever, the congressmen-elect are coming to him asking him to help them to desirable committee berths.

Mr. James is now one of the biggest men of the house, his committee being the greatest of all in the house organization.

It can be stated positively that the Kentucky Democratic members fare about as follows in the new distribution, if the plans of the ways and means committee do not go awry.

Stanley—Rules and probably agriculture.

Johnson—Chairman of District of Columbia committee.

Thomas—Judiciary.

Rouse—Postoffice and post roads.

Fields—Invalid pensions, mines and mining.

Sherley—Appropriations.

Cantrill—Public buildings and grounds.

Helm—Banking and currency, chairman on committee on expenditures of interior department

THOSE PRETTY TOES.

A bachelor well known in Marion, was riding in a Pullman sleeper. The opposite berth was occupied by a pretty little woman and her 2-year-old boy. Early in the morning mother and child were playing and laughing together, and the good-natured bachelor, smiling serenely as he rose to dress, felt that he would like to join in their fun. Suddenly a little foot peeped out from between the curtains of the opposite berth, and, with a merry twinkle in his eye, the bachelor grabbed the plump toes and began:

"This little pig went to market. This little—"

"That is my foot, sir," said the indignant woman.

The aforesaid well known bachelor hastily grabbed up all his belongings and completed his trip in the seclusion of the smoking compartment at the rear end of the car.

THE WAY TO WIN.

Strike while the iron is heated; Pause and the iron gets cold. If you strike too late on a hardened plate, The weld will never mold.

Seek, and success will follow; Wait, and it passes by. Be quick to grasp, then hold it fast, And trust for a better try.

Work, and the world works with you; Loaf, and you loaf alone; This strenuous world's a continuous whirl; It offers no room for the drone.

MY TREASURES.

I hold in my hand this evening, A box long guarded with care, And oft I bend above it,

With silent tear and prayer. Not all the gold in the mountains, Nor yet, the pearls of the sea, Could buy tonight the treasures, This wee box holds for me.

Only a bunch of letters, Worn and yellow with age, And tears quickly gather As I scan each written page. One from a loving schoolmate, Written thirty years tonight; Dear Grace, it needs no letter To keep your memory bright.

And one from my dear old mother,

That mother so far away;

It says, "I hope my daughter You'll never forget to pray."

And one from the dear old father,

The last he wrote to me:

Hi ends, "Good night my loved one How I'd love your face to see."

Here's one, the last of my letters,

What need to read it again,

When every word that is written Is stamped on heart and brain.

Here a broken band ring

Lies in its paper white;

Ah, I loved and kissed the giver Just thirty years tonight.

Ah, me! here's a knot of ribbon And a lock of golden hair,

Once it lay on the head of my baby.

My baby, sweet and fair.

But the mate to that knot of ribbon,

Lies on my baby's breast,

Far, far in God's acre—

Ah, me! but God knew best.

Slowly I lock up my treasures

As the sun is going down,

Leaving a lingering trace of light

On valley, hill and town.

Not all the gold in the mountains,

Nor yet, the pearls of the sea,

Could buy tonight the treasures,

Death of Susan Brantly

A short sketch of one of the oldest citizens of our county—Aunt Susan Brantly. She was born July 23rd, 1823. She was converted at the age of sixteen years, joined the Cumberland Presbyterian church at Piney Fork. In after years she was transferred to Sugar Grove church and remained there as a consistent member till God called for her. She was married to W. J. Brantley November, 1843, to this union was born ten children, five living and five dead. Caraline and Deanie are still living at the old home; Tressie married J. M. Lamb who lived near by; Dora married J. M. McConnell, who lives 3 miles west of Shady Grove.

W. B. Brantly married W. B. Crider's daughter and is now living in Sheridan county, Kan. Aunt Susan was the seventh child of her father's family, five and two girls. All have passed away but L. M. Travis, who is now living at Tribune, Ky., he will be ninety years old the 20th of next June. Aunt Sue knew what it was to break flax, card and spin cotton, to make summer clothing for the family by the light of pine knots. She spun and wove their winter clothing which brought them great comfort.

She has followed the cradle bound wheat and oats, day in and day out. Plowed, hoed, gathered corn, picked brush, burnt logs in order to help her husband to provide plenty for the family and to help others. I stop here to brush away the tears so I may see how to write this sketch.

Think of it will you; in her younger days there were no washboards or washing machines. It was a bench and a paddle to beat the dirt out of the clothes thus they worked hard and made a good living. When going to church in summertime they would carry their shoes in their hands until near the church then sit down and brush off the dust put on there shoes and go in.

Now don't any of you who read this get it up your nose that those people were of a low grade of people, they were among the best and paid for what they eat and wore. W. J. Brantly died February 12th, thirteen years ago. Aunt Susan and the two girls have lived at the old home with plenty. Miss Deanie, who is the youngest girl took hold of the reins and like a hero at the head of an army, she stood in the front took the hard places for which we give her praise. She was true to her mother to the last, may God blessings rest

MRS. COOK TELLS TRUTH.

Dexter, Ky.—In a signed statement, Mrs. Cook tells the truth about how Cardui brought back her health and strength. She says: "I could not get relief, until I tried Cardui, the woman's tonic. I suffered more or less for 10 years, and was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my house work. Now I am in better health than ever before am regular as clock work, do not suffer at all, and gain strength every day." Thousands of women have been helped back to health by Cardui. Try it.

Notice to Patrons of The Marion Electric Light And Ice Co., Inc.

We shall be compelled on account of being overloaded to discontinue service to some of our patrons, and have decided to take those who are delinquent in paying their bills, as the fairest way to decide whom to cut out. Our rates are too low and margins too close to carry bills, or to call half a dozen times to collect a bill on which we probably clear .10 cts. a month.

State Park For Cave-In-Rock.

The Illinois Historic Commission has announced its willingness to establish a State park at Cave-in-Rock, provided the owners of the lands in the vicinity will sell them at a reasonable price. Illinois has been doing an important work in this way in the last few years and steps have been taken for the protection and preservation of a number of points of historic interest.

Cave-in-Rock is a natural cavern in a cliff on the Ohio River some twenty miles below Shawneetown. It is one of a series of caverns in that vicinity and there is said to be an underground passage leading from Cave-in-Rock to Equality, Illinois, a distance of twenty-five miles. In the early years of the State's history, the cavern was a resort of robbers, river pirates, and counterfeitors, whose depredations extended into both Illinois and Kentucky. No history of either State is complete without a reference to Cave-in-Rock, and "Wilson's Liquor Vault and House of Entertainment," where scores of the pioneer Ohio river boatmen were put permanently to sleep by the gang of cut-throats which made headquarters for several years at the cavern.

The cave in the rock, a natural curiosity well-worth seeing, is a place of great historical importance, and the Illinois commission would be doing a valuable service for the State in establishing a permanent park there. The underground passage, it is said, has obstructions at several points of its route, but it is probable these could be removed at comparatively small expense. With the State in control of the cavern and surrounding grounds, the place would become attractive to tourists, and if the citizens of the locality are wise they will co-operate in the park movement. As the noted cavern is intimately connected with Kentucky's early history, and is only a few feet outside of Kentucky's jurisdiction, residents of this State will follow the movement of the Illinois Historical Commission with approving interest.

Saved at Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers, of Transit Bridge, N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition," he writes, "my skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing forty pounds growing weaker daily. Virulent liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine-Electric Bitters cured me. I regained the forty pounds lost and now am well and strong." For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're supreme. 50 cents at J. H. Orme and Haynes & Taylor's drug stores, Marion, Ky.

RECEPTION TO

ELDER ROWE.

Fayette (Mo.) Press.

On last Thursday evening the members of the Christian Church gave a reception to their new pastor Elder J. S. Rowe, and wife. The fact that the notice in the papers stated it would be on Monday evening, and the indication of rain in the early part of the evening kept a good many away, yet a goodly number greeted the pastor and wife on this occasion. Every body made themselves feel at home and it was truly an old-fashioned hand shaking time that was greatly enjoyed, by not only members of their congregation but others as well joined in the pleasure. The Christian Church never had a more enjoyable reception than this and it is regretted that every member did not receive the word that it was to Thursday evening instead of Monday evening. It was good to be there. Brick ice-cream and cake were served. In this connection we are pleased to state that Elder Rowe has already won a warm place in the hearts of all. He is truly a man of God.

ZEMO is a clean liquid for external use that has cured so many cases of eczema, pimples, dandruff and other forms of skin eruption. ZEMO and ZEMO soap are sold by druggists everywhere and in Marion by Haynes & Taylor.

Wheat in this part of the country looks pretty dry.

All the farmers around Blodgett and Sikeston had fine corn and wheat last year.

We Kentucky people out here are all sure glad to know that you have charge of the Press once more.

Wishing you much success and with best wishes to enquiring friends I remain.

Sincerely Yours

Washington News.

Washington, January.—Death has wrought havoc again and again in the Senate of the Sixty-first Congress. The passing away of Senator Stephen Benton Elkins, while not unexpected within the past few weeks, is nevertheless a shock to those who recall his vigorous activity last session.

Senator Elkins first appeared in public life in Washington in 1879 as a delegate from New Mexico in the Forty-sixth Congress. He made one speech in that Congress, and it was for the admission of the territory as a state. Senator Elkins' career in the Senate has been conspicuously devoted to study and work upon commercial questions coming before Congress, his greatest distinction having been achieved as chairman of the Committee on Interstate Commerce in its dealing with railway rate issues.

The death of the West Virginia Senator leaves vacant the chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce committee and his places on Commerce, Appropriations, Rules, Printing and Geological Survey. His term ran to March 4, 1913, and his death is a loss to the Republicans of the Senate, reducing its majority to 8 in the next Congress.

As the West Virginia legislature which is in session, is strongly Democratic, that party will elect two Senators, the election to be January 17.

An early report and expeditious passage of the Rivers and Harbors bill is expected in the Senate. The aggregate sum of the Senate amendments is $2,800,000, and it is not likely that the bill, as it came from the House with the Senate additions will amount to much more than $26,000,000.

With the unexpended balances for a number of projects provided for in the river and harbor bill of last June reasonable provision has been made for waterway improvement until the next regular Congress undertakes to pass a bill. It is expected that something like a $50,000,000 bill, in accord with the policy of the National River and Harbor Congress, will be passed.

The little American contingent of sailors and marines occupying the island of Guam in the middle of the Pacific will have to wait more than a month for their Christmas remembrances from home which should have reached them on time. Just at the yule tide the transport Logan, with a cargo of Christmas trees and goodies of all kinds was drawing nigh the island when it was discovered that an enlisted soldier bound for the Philippines had smallpox. Nothing was allowed to land, and the ship was forced to proceed to Manila. The Christmas consignment had to be shipped back to the United States and thence it will be reshipped to Guam on the first transport sailing eastward.

It will be just a year on January 10 since the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation was authorized by Congress. Agitators for a test vote on the three reports of the Committee, the majority, the minority and the Madison report expect to get a vote by February 1.

The Bureau of Manufactures, Department of Commerce and Labor, has communication from an American business house which states it has been purchasing drinking straws abroad, but would like to make purchases in the home market.

The 10th of January will be a notable day in these parts. It will be the day for the meeting of the National Board of Trade, whose membership represents business organizations in all the cities of the United States, the day Congress votes on the Panama exposition question and the date of the caucuses of the House Democrats on the Sixty-second Congress. It is the common understanding among the Democrats that the first thing to be done will be the election of the Democratic or majority contingent of 12 members of the war and means committee the early action being taken in order that the committee may get to work on the Democratic tariff bill.

Friends of Senator Charles J. Hughes, of Colorado, state that the condition of his health is so precarious that it is not at all probable that he will ever be able to resume his duties as a Senator. It is expected that he will resign.

Champ Clark confesses that he may have some French blood in him. His name was originally James Beauchamp Clark, the middle name being for his mother's family which was of Huguenot strain. The future Speaker of the House of his own motion, cut out all of his name but the "hump."

The battleship Arkansas, to be launched at Camden, New Jersey, at the yard of the New York Shipbuilding Company, Jan. 13 will be the largest warship afloat—26,000 tons and carrying more high-power big guns than any other warcraft on the seas, having in turrets twelve 12-inch breech-loading rifles and 21 five-inch rapid fire rifle cannon for broadside battery, to say nothing of numerous quick-firing automatic smaller rifles. She will have a crew of 1072 officers and men.

UNIQUE INVENTORY OF HUSBAND'S ESTATE IS FILED BY MRS. HARRIS.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 31.—County Clerk Hunt, of Davidson county, in calling upon Mrs. Corra Harris (Mrs. R. E.) to furnish an inventory of her husband's estate, of which she had been made executrix, received a remarkable and unique reply from Mrs. Harris.

After saying that she did not know how to make the inventory and apologizing because she had not known it was her duty to do so, she says among other things:

Free Sample For Baby's Ills

Something can and must be done for the puny, crying baby, for the child that refuses to eat and is restless in its sleep. And since the basis of all health is the proper working of the digestive organs, look first to the condition of the stomach and bowels.

A child should have two full and free movements of the bowels a day. This emptying of the bowels is very important, as with it comes a clean head, a lighter heart, good appetite and sound sleep. But it is equally important to know what to give the child in the emergency of constipation and indigestion. Cathartics are too strong and salts and other purgatives are not only too strong for the child but offend them because of their harsh taste. Have you ever tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint? It is a liquid tonic that families have been using for a quarter of a century. It is mild, pleasant-tasting and promptly effective. It is good for you as well as the child, but you are in failing better to be found for children. They like its taste—you will not have to force them to take it.

First of all, if you have not yet used it, Dr. Caldwell would like to send you a sample bottle free of charge. In this way you can try it before buying. Once when convinced of its merits, you can get it at your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as thousands of other families are doing. The family of Mr. W. B. Spangler of Steubenville, Pa., as well as Mr. E. B. Johnson of Walnut Grove, Tenn., started with it in that way and now write that it is their one family necessity next to food itself. If you are unfortunate enough to have a sickly child, one given to constipation and indigestion, you should send for a free sample.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address in Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 1150 Caldwell building, Monteello, Ill.

Finding of Ring May Clear Murder Mystery.

Noblesville, Ind., Jan. 24.—The finding of a ring today near the spot where a number of human bones were unearthed a few days ago in this city, it is believed, will clear up the mysterious disappearance of Eugene C. Woodmansee, of Danville, Ill., in 1867, just a few hours before he was to have been married to Miss Sarah Virt, who lived near here.

The bones were found under an old house occupied by Bert Cloud, and he says that, following a dream that more bones would be found, he began digging and unearthed the ring and an old trunk containing parts of a human skeleton. It is believed the ring is the one which Woodmansee had intended to give Miss Virt.

Older inhabitants of the city recall that shortly after the Civil War a roadhouse with a bad reputation was located near the Cloud home, and it is believed that the young man was lured there and murdered. Marriage license records of the county show that a license was issued for Eugene C. Woodmansee and Miss Sarah Virt, but had never been used.

Millions of Bushels of Coal Coming.

Pittsburg, Jan. 24.—Barge water will be had in Pittsburg by daybreak and coal to the amount of several million bushels will be started out. There was a heavy rain over the Allegheny watershed last night and at 10 o'clock tonight the upper Ohio river began rising slowly and there is enough water in the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers to guarantee the wanted coal water by daybreak. This was a very busy night through loading stores boats and getting tons in shape to take the current at the first moment the water shows a safe depth.

The Valiant, the Sam Brown and the Fallie, which are now almost to Pittsburg with empties, will, on their arrival in the morning, start South again with an aggregate of sixty-one barges or over 900,000 bushels of coal.

Fruit Dealer Fined $1,750

For Selling Liquor.

Valdosta, Ga., Jan. 23.—John A. Mansir, a wealthy fruit dealer here plead guilty to three counts of selling liquor today, and was fined a total of $1,750 with an alternative of two years on the chain gang. He paid the fine, which is a new record for selling liquor here.

Buttermilk Served at Lee Cruce's Reception.

Out of deference to the well known prohibition scruples of Gov. Lee Cruce, who was inaugurated Governor, buttermilk was served at the reception held in his honor, instead of the customary punch. Twenty gallons of the beverage were required to supply the crowd.

Gov. Cruce created a social diversion some time ago by refusing to wear either a dress-suit or a silk hat. He said the most coat he would wear was a "jimswinger." This, he explained, was any coat with spike-tails except a dress-suit coat.

Gov. Cruce is from Crittenden county, and he and Congressman Ollie M. James studied law together in the office of the elder James. But the Congressman said today that the Governor has it on him when he mentions a "jimswinger."

"It isn't Western Kentucky talk," said Ollie. "I never heard of a jimswinger." The Governor has the advantage of me. I believe he must have learned about it when he went Southwest."

Every day in the House of Representatives Mr. James wears a long frock coat, which is certainly divided into tails. But he is firm in declaring that it is not a "jimswinger," but a "forked radish."

Worst Blizzard in Twenty Years.

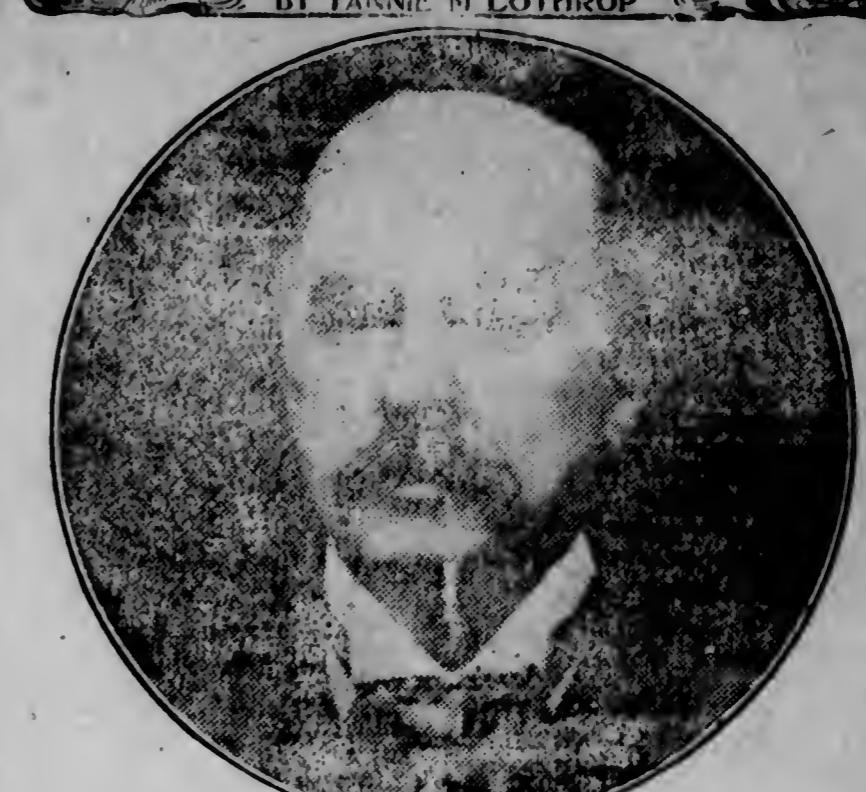

Sacramento, Jan. 23rd.—With hundreds of men battling with the snow-choked passages of the Sierras in an effort to keep railroad lines clear and bring relief to the stalled overland and mail trains, all the gigantic resources of the Southern Pacific and Western Pacific companies are being brought to bear in fighting the worst snow storm in the mountain districts in the last twenty years.

Last night all east and west-bound trains were moving on the Southern Pacific tracks through the Sierras and the snow sheds, which were damaged by the heavy fall of snow the last two days, had been temporarily repaired.

Realizing the impossibility of forcing a passage through the snowdrifts of six to eight foot depth, the Western Pacific railroad officials last night ordered its stalled east-bound overland trains at Belden and Oreville to return to San Francisco and announced the overland at San Francisco, which was ready to depart for the East.

FAMOUS PEOPLE

BY FANNIE M. LOTHROP

J. PIERPONT MORGAN

America's Greatest Financier.

WHEN J. Pierpont Morgan was a student at the English High School, in Boston, he won the prize in mathematics three years in succession—and he has been winning prizes in figures ever since. He is the paramount influence in 55,555 miles of railways, over one fourth of the mileage of America, and he has, through his many interests, a powerful voice in the control of nearly seven billion dollars, or more than one twelfth the wealth of the nation. This great genius in organizing, or "Morganizing" as an English wit puts it, came from a long line of merchants and bankers and began his business career at twenty, and now at sixty-nine, stands a giant in the world of finance.

He is a man of tremendous energy, physically and mentally, and as he concentrates vast industries into a colossal unit, cutting off waste energy, dissipations of cost and leakage of power, so does he master his own life. He does one thing at a time, putting into it all the strength of his nature; when that is accomplished, his full, free, clear mind is ready for a new subject. In business he seems to have no other thought; when yachting, the millions of his Wall Street interests seem to fade into nothingness. His library and his marvellous art collections occupy the entire stage of his mind when they occupy it all. He is a man of instant decision, one of few words, who cares nothing for advice and has a contempt for criticism. When he decides, the judgment is final, there is no appeal. It is the verdict of a supreme court.

He is a keen student of human nature and an instinctive judge of men and their values. He is a great general, planning his campaigns, directing his partners and lieutenants to perform specific phases of the great work, each knowing only his own part; Mr. Morgan alone knows it all. The details of their separate activities come to his hands and combine into the mosaic of accomplished purpose as his mind saw it all from the beginning.

His charities are done silently and unobtrusively. Though one of the greatest philanthropists of the time, his name is never stamped on any benefaction and no chiseled "Morgan" adorns the arched doorway of any of the good works of this strong, quiet, self-possessed genius who avoids publicity and notoriety. His great wealth has come from building great enterprises, never wracking them, and those who know him best, most admire the sterling qualities of his character.

Letter From J. G. Haynes.

Carterville, Mo., Jan. 17, 1911.

Record-Press,

Marion, Ky.

My Dear Friend Jenkins:-

There were two things that came to my memory, this morning when the Record-Press failed to put in its appearance, at 120 West Main St., Carterville, Mo. First, my time expired in Jan. Second, that on Jan. 1st, you were to cut off all delinquents. I hasten to enclose a check, that I may be in touch with the outside world again.

We are always glad to hear from home, and know of no better or cheaper communication than your paper. It is a great message to us, and we appreciate it.

We are having fine weather here in the southwest, this winter. Warm and nice, with no rain or snow.

We are in the midst of a revival meeting, in which all the churches of the city have united, and the way is opening for a great meeting.

We see in the paper, that Dr. Mather is pushing the "New Church Problem," in Marion; We trust he may be successful in the enterprise, and the good people of my old home church, soon have a house of worship commensurate to their merit.

Yours Very Truly,
John G. Haynes.

HUGHES—MCGINNIS.

The Era has the pleasure of chronicling one of the most happy events of the season and yet not without a slight regret, too, on the Era's part, since we lose one of our most valued correspondents in consequence.

Miss Clyde McGinnis was married in Denver, Col., Dec. 24, 1910, to Mr. Marshal B. Hughes, of Marion, Ky. Miss Clyde is the daughter of L. H. B. McGinnis, of Rosi Clare, Ill., and both the young people are worthy of good families and highly respected.

Mr. Hughes has employment with a mining company in Kokomo, Colo., several hundred miles west of Denver; he is an industrious and model young man. He was formerly employed with the Fairview mining company but resigned to take a position at a larger salary in the West where he prepared a cozy home for the lady who became his wife.

Miss Clyde is beautiful and noble young lady well endowed with all the qualities of head and heart that make her well worthy her husband's love. She was accompanied as far as Denver by her father where according to previous arrangements they were met at the Alamo Hotel by Mr. Hughes and a gentleman friend of his. The whole party entered a taxicab and were taken to the City Hall where the marriage ceremony was performed at 10 o'clock a. m. Dec. 24th, 1910. The young people spent Xmas in Denver leaving for Kokomo the following day. Mr. McGinnis returned home the evening of the 26th full of praise for the west and western people.

The Era would still like to hear from its esteemed young friends all the more now by being so far away and sincerely trust they may strike a full pot of pure gold in the new diggin's and much happiness. (Hardin Era.)

CRAWLS INTO FURNACE TO GET DRY; BURNS TO DEATH.

Jasper, Ind., Jan. 8.—(Special)—George Yoreis, an aged basketmaker, who for many years had been making his home in an old deserted house on the Peter Frick farm, near Bretzville, crawled into the boiler of an engine at an oil well on the Jacob Schurz farm, near Huntingburg, to dry his clothes, which were wet from falling into a creek near the well, and to save himself from freezing. He placed a plank in the furnace, one end resting on the flues on the inside and the other end on a block of wood on the ground outside, and on this he lay down to warm and dry himself over the fire that had been banked up so it would keep. It is supposed that he soon fell asleep and the gas from the coal smothered him. His body was burned to a crisp.

KID RIDGE

Hello! Here we are once more you see.

Weather almost like spring, only rather cool.

Roads are getting very bad on account of so much tobacco being hauled over them.

There is lots of tobacco being hauled through this section to be delivered at Crayne.

There is prayer meeting every Sunday morning at Cookseyville. Every body invited to attend.

Mrs. Emmie Montgomery has been on the sick list for some time.

He has made a voyage on a golden river—

*Neath clouds of gloom and amethyst. Along its banks bright shapes were moving ever,

And threatening shadows melted into mist.

The journey so near its close; in some still haven His back shall find its anchorage of rest,

When the kind hand, which every good has given, Opening with wide grace, shall give the best.

Poor blind man! the lower he drinks the cup of life—he thinks—the sweeter it grows. All the sugar is at the bottom.

NINETY YEARS YOUNG.

O. G. W.

Lindley Murray Travis, familiarly known as "Uncle Lin," and as "dy," attained his ninetieth year earthly pilgrimage on the 20th of January, 1911, and is still plodding on looking forward to that peace, which alone when attained, shall be absolute, entire rest. In the peace of the journey which expects the peace of the end, may we go on in these days, while God keeps us living in this world, to that richer world that is to come. Ninety—how swift the flying years go by!

One scarce begins to live, when he must die; Yet he has lived, tho' he should live no more And he has found life sweet from stem to core.

He has made a voyage on a golden river—

*Neath clouds of gloom and amethyst. Along its banks bright shapes were moving ever,

And threatening shadows melted into mist.

The journey so near its close; in some still haven His back shall find its anchorage of rest,

When the kind hand, which every good has given, Opening with wide grace, shall give the best.

Poor blind man! the lower he drinks the cup of life—he thinks—the sweeter it grows. All the sugar is at the bottom.

Card of Thanks.

We want to give expression to our thanks and heartfelt gratitude to all of those kind friends who, by word and deed and act, so tenderly and lovingly assisted and comforted us during the illness and death of our dear husband and father.

So many friends were ever ready with willing hands and consoling words, to render needed help, in the sad, dark hour, that we shall never be able to fully make known to them our appreciation.

We sincerely hope and pray that when such trials come to them—as must some day—that each and all of them may have loyal true Christian friends and neighbors, as we had, to support them and make brighter life's pathway.

May Heaven's blessings be poured out abundantly upon them all.

Mrs. Martha Hurley and Children.
